

Counterintelligence

Our Nation's secrets and technology are in jeopardy. U.S. cleared industry is a prime target of many foreign intelligence efforts.

Maintain your awareness and report any suspicious activities or contacts to your security office. The most common methods of contact our adversaries use are at conferences and conventions, via email, phone, or surveys, and when you may be on foreign travel.

A best practice for your safety on foreign travel is to become informed about the foreign locations you will be visiting, especially the foreign intelligence collection threat and crime problems.

If you suspect you may have been targeted, report it immediately. Recognizing and reporting indicators and suspicious contacts is critical to disrupting counterintelligence threats and mitigating risks. Reporting allows us to share and address risks together.

CDSE

Center for Development of Security Excellence